

Soldier Soldier will you marry me now?

C

Soldier, Soldier, will you marry me now

Am

with a hee and a ho to the sound of a drum?

C

Oh no, fair maid, I couldn't marry you for I don't have no boots / socks / shirt / suit / hat to put on.

G

C

So she went to the shop just as quick as she could run

Am

with a hee and a ho to the sound of a drum,

C

and she bought him a boots / socks / shirt / suit / hat of the very, very best, saying:

"Here, my good man, put this/these on."

End:

C

Soldier, Soldier, will you marry me now

Am

with a hee and a ho to the sound of a drum?

C

Oh no, fair maid, I couldn't marry you

C

because I have my own wife at home.
